The country town is a part of the country. It is one of the encouraging signs of the times that country town business men are coming to realize this. It has not been so long ago that every little town thought that its business was to grow into a city just as soon as possible. Some town and many town people still think so. Many small town people, too, still think that their chief relations and interests are with the cities rather than the country. The most far-seeing business men have come to know better. They are seeing more and more clearly that the town, the small city, is an integral part of the country, that it prospers only as the country prospers, and that it is its place in the scheme of things to be the life center of the country about Cards of thanks, calls on candilit. Eight Thousand Enrolled as Students in University Attached to Expeditionary Forces-Institution Occupies More Than 300 Structures-Abandoned Agricultural Schools in Occupied Germany Taken Over-Forty Studies Offered.

Over in east central France there is going on an American adventure in education of which very little has been the week-end in Covington as a guest | said over here. A university has been established, with a college of agriculture and ten other colleges and a farm -Mrs. J. H. McGinnis has return- school. Two months ago it was an idea; today it has 8,000 enrolled students; more than 3,000 attend the school, while extension activities reach hundreds of thousands of men in one way or another. The university building is a former American hospital near the town of Beaume, in the famous vineyard district of Cote d'Or.

About the middle of March a host of young American soldiers came sweeping into the old hospital grounds from all parts of the expeditionary forces. They had packs on their backs, guns in their hands, gas masks and "tin" hats at their sides. They put on overels and picks, and made things ready to go to school. They kept coming, so that now the university occupies more than 300 structures, which called for 800 carloads of material and equip-

Idea Makes a Hit.

This was the work of the army education commission, in co-operation with the department of agriculture and various state colleges and universities. The idea made a hit with the soldiers at once. Each week tens of thousands of them are in class or lecture rooms established throughout the army. The teaching staff from the home colleges found the men eager to talk about farming "back home," which was one of the objects of the experiment. They are satisfied by the interest displayed in the class and by the fact that more than 500 farmers' clubs have been orat her home on Seventh street, in this city, her aunt, Mrs. Eugenia 20,000 soldiers. One day a flying squadron of "city fellers" came over to the university to "get some agricultural dope." There was enjoyment of army pleasantry at first, but in the end several of the visitors confessed themselves so interested that they, too; soon would be in the school.

In many units of the expeditionary forces farmer-soldiers have a chance to go to agricultural schools which maintain courses of six to twelve weeks and give instruction in several fundamental studies. They are called post and divisional schools. They are usually under the general supervision of representatives of the commission, although the principals and teachers are from the army. They are held in all sorts of places, wherever rooms and equipment can be found. In Germany abandoned agricultural schools in the occupied territory have been taken over. Even the land surrounding such schools has been made use of for practical work with crops, soil and gardens. Sometimes live stock is secured for judging, but usually the classes are taken to near-by farms for study and observation of the live stock found

Forty Studies Offered. Forty different studies are offered the boys grouped in four general departments-animal husbandry, agronomy, horticulture and forestry and rural economics and sociology. In addition supporting subjects are offered at other colleges of the university. In the first account of this American university to be received by the department of agriculture Prof. F. W. Beckman of Iowa State college says:

"The immediate results of the educational program of the commission are worth while, but farseeing men expect even greater results in the future. Secretary Baker, in his address at the university, said he believed that out of the commission's work would come a permanent educational policy for the army, combining military training with training for the vocations and for civil life. Agriculturally the immediate results will be large, for the farmer-soldiers of the expeditionary forces are being stirred to a full realization of their opportunities and their obligations in the rural field. They are thinking as they never thought before about the rural tasks that await them back home, and they are likely to return better qualified to deal with them and with a new spirit toward them."

BOURBON FARMING CONDITIONS.

The long drouth which has prevailed in many sections of the county was broken by recent rains, and the late corn and tobacco have been been greatly benefitted. Some hail and wind accompanied the rains, but no great damage of any consequence itial well, which was "shot" on that was caused. While considerable tobacco was planted early and got an early start the rains came too late. A part of the crop had to be cut and housed to prevent damage from the hot rays of the sun, but the larger portion of the crop being set late will now have a chance to grow out. The same is true of the late corn. The rains have revived the grass and there will be a good growth for fall grazing. Late planted garden truck will also be benefitted by the rains. The prices of vegetables on the local in this vicinity for which it is said market have already declined, showing the effects of the rains in bring- 10 of the Columbia Oil & Gas Coming rapid growth. EXPERTS GIVE OPINION ON TO- U. S. WARNS MEXICO TO BE GOOD BACCO CROP OUTLOOK.

Whether the burley tobacco will be large and of good quality depends entirely upon the weather from now on, according to statements by tobacco experts. H. F. Hillenmeyer said if there is an average rainfall of one inch a week the rest of this month the yield will be larger than last year, although he estimates the price will decline from 10 to 12 cents a pound.

This year there is the largest tobacco acreage in the history of Central Kentucky, Mr. Hillenmeyer said. Most of the land has been devoted to wheat, corn and tobacco and of the last-named product there is an increased acreage of about 15 per cent above normal, he estimates.

Practically all tobacco growers planted their crop when the ground was wet and when the ground turned hot in June, much of the tobacco was burned in transplanting. There was hardly a field that did not have to be reset, Mr. Hillenmeyer stated. The early tobacco was damaged by the dry weather, but the late crop, with the exception of being irregular, is looking good and is growing

John R. Humphrey, head of the Department of Markets, University of Kentucky, is of the opinion there will be a good price for the better grades this fall. He bases this opinion on the fact that the Eeastern markets, although they opened low, have gradually risen until the average is about Potosi last month, and the perpetraequal to last year.

The crop in North and South Carolina and Virginia is only about 60 per cent. of what was expected, according to Mr. Humphrey. He estimates there will be more discrimina- ment: tion in grades this season, with the good quality bringing high prices, and the poor grades selling very low.

INDIAN SQUAW'S WISDOM

Out among the Pilchuck Indians in Washington, the thrift habit has Sanitary Meat Market taken hold like a forest fire and the are rapidly being set aside for habits dated July 28, signed by Salvador Diego-Fernandez, in charge of the of thrift.

One of the most active boosters for thrift among this tribe is Pilchuck Julia, an aged squaw, who is looked upon by her people as a seeress of great wisdom. When Lula says "save," her worshipping followers know it is "good medicine," and forthwith move their moccasins to the local War Savings Stamp headquarters to buy Thrift and War Savings Stamps.

Recently Fred W. Graham, State Director of the National Thrift Campaign, journeyed to the Pilchuck reservation and decorated Julia with the "Order of the Thrifty." When the director pinned a gaudy War Savings Stamp button upon the aged seeress' coat, she smiled and said:

"Heap big snows are coming. Better save for the Great Cold."

And the braves and squaws who had assembled to witness the ceremony of decorating Julia nodded their heads solemnly in assent.

The above appeared in a recent issue of a Cincinnati newspaper. We have heard of Fords being kept in many places, but this is the first time we ever heard of one being kept upstairs in a residence. Thus, day by day, the advantages of this wonderful little machine become more and high that we need no longer fear it is more evident. Whereas, one must build garages for other automobiles to keep them safe from thieves, this advertisement shows that one can take a "flivver" upstairs with him when the day's work is done, and put it under the bed with his shoes or throw it in a convenient corner, just as one does his trousers. Henry may not know any more history than other business men, but the "flivver" knows what it can do in the way of spending the night at home.

ARMY WILL BE DEMOBILIZED BY OCTOBER.

Demobilization of the army "so far as combatant troops are concerned." will be completed the last of October, Secretary Baker announced recently. Many men now in the army, it was explained, will be retained to care for large stores of equipment remaining on hand.

Mr. Baker announced some time the national defense act by September 30. At that time, however, there still will remain in the army a number of men enlisted for teh emergency. These will be released as rapidly as they can be replaced by volun- States against German dyes mean

LOUISVILLE

LOUISVILLE, KY., August 18.— Democrats of Kentucky will hold a platform convention in Louisville September 4. This was decided by a vote of 15 to 4 at a joint meeting of the Democratic State Central and Executive Committees at the Seelbach Thursday.

DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM CON-

VENTION AT LOUISVILLE, SEPT. 4.

William F. Klair, of Lexington, made a determined effort to land the convention for that city. The three who voted with him were former United States Senator George B. Model "K"-44

Buick Three-Passenger Roadster-

THE BUICK Model K-Six-44 possesses marked advantages for the man or woman who wishes a car of limited passenger capacity, with an exceptionally roomy and comfortable driving compartment. This three-passenger model makes the most of these desirable features, without sacrificing one whit of the modish appearance that belongs to the type.

The body is distinctly a Buick creation, broadening out to accommodate a wide, deep seat for three, then curving in at the back to form a trim rear deck with a weatherproof carrying space for luggage.

The dimensions of the driving compartment insure easy entrance or exit from either side, with the control and brake levers well forward but within easy reach. The French pleated upholstery is built for long wear and comfort.
